

Are you planning to go on holidays?

Stay connected with learning this summer

Kumon is here to support your children to continue with their learning, even if you are planning some time away.

Learn anywhere, anytime

Kumon is a flexible, Instructor-supported study programme. Whether your children are learning using paper and pencil, or tablet and stylus, they are able to study their worksheets anywhere in the world!

If you are planning time away from the Kumon centre, please notify your Kumon Instructor by the 15th of the preceding month, to allow your Instructor time to plan and prepare. If continuing your study over the holidays, your monthly Kumon tuition fees will continue to be debited as normal.

Please consider the following three options to suit your children's individual study needs and maximise their holiday learning.

Option 1: Continue normal study (no change)

The strength of Kumon is that daily learning will continue to develop your child, even while away. Only 15-20 minutes of daily study keeps your child's mind active and switched on, enabling them to return to school with confidence. Encourage your child to complete Kumon first thing in the morning before they start the rest of their day.

Option 2: Adjust your daily workload

Some students want to increase daily study time to take advantage of the extra time they have over summer. This can be a great opportunity for your child to master new concepts before they are encountered in the next school year.

For students who need a little break, decreasing the daily workload or the total number of study days per week can be a helpful strategy. This can help students feel they are having a mini-break from their regular routine, while continuing to benefit from the ongoing learning. When the time comes, it is easier for your child to get back into the normal daily study habit.

Option 3: Review and consolidate learning

The school break can also provide students with the opportunity to review the learning of the past few months and consolidate their understanding. This could be helpful for students who are unsure if they are ready for the next school year.

Pausing study

Please note: In the event that you need to suspend Kumon while you will be away, please notify your Instructor by the 15th of the preceding month as per the Parent Agreement. Your Instructor will then be able to authorise a stop to your payment for the full calendar month that you will be away.

Please don't hesitate to contact your Instructor should you have any questions about your child's learning options for the summer ahead.
